BLOOM DIES AT SANTA CRUZ; ASSAILANT CHARGED MURDER

Walter Bloom, who was shot at Lescadero on Monday of last week, passed away in a sanitarium at Santa Cruz on Friday. His assailant, A. T. Glenn who is confined in the county jail in this city will be charged with murder by District Attorney Swart. He is very much cast down over the outcome of the affray.

According to witnesses the trouble between Bloom and Glenn started without provocation. The two young men had been good friends, and had been drinking together in the best of friendship. They walked into a saloon together and to pass the time away a friendly wrestling bout was suggested, to which both agreed in the best of terms, and also that there was to be no hitting or bad feeling engendered.

Before the wrestling even began, Glenn, who is said to have been too much under the influence of liquor to realize his rash act, suddenly drew his pistol and shot Bloom just below the breast, the bullet passing through the liver. The assailant shot a second time, but Bloom, by seizing his hand, turned the pistol so that the bullet passed into the floor. Then the two men joined in a desperate scuffle, until stopped by onlookers, Glenn being somewhat bruised as a result.

Believed to Be Burglar.
Sheriff Mansfield is convinced that Fred Cogshell, a prisoner at the county jail, accused of robbing a Chinese gardener at the Phelps place at San Carlos, is wanted for the more serious crime of robbing the post office at Broderick, a short time ago. Mr. Mansfield, believing that Cogshell had a criminal record, had him photographed, sending copies to the various detective agencies throughout the State. He received a duplicate photo from Detective Max Fisher of Sacramento, accompanied by the information that Cogshell was wanted by the officers of that city.

Officers of Fraternal Aid.
At its last meeting the Fraternal Aid Association elected the following officers: President Miss Pearl George, past president Mary Read, vice-president Emil Medefind, secretary Mrs. Martha George, treasurer Bertha Murray, chaplain Urica Sahberg, captain Ruby George, guide Mrs. Mary Winter, inside guard E. O. Rhodes, outside guard Lottie Ballantyne, trustee John E. Layng. The association will have a Christmas tree next Tuesday evening for its members.

"LOVELY SAN MATEO COUNTY."
The San Mateo County Development Association, which is a member of the Tourist Association of Central California, has received from that organization booklets, advertising this section of the State, which are now being distributed throughout the United States to prospective visitors of the Panama-Pacific fair. San Mateo county is well treated in these booklets, which are of several kinds. In an article entitled, "Train, Trolley and Boat Trips," an interesting chapter is devoted to what is designated "Lovely San Mateo County."

Lady Goes to Jail.
Mrs. Madeline Welch of Millbrae pleaded guilty in Justice Lamb's court at Burlingame Monday, to a charge of conducting a saloon without a license. She was sentenced to serve thirty days in the county jail. As there is no matron at the county jail Mrs. Welch will be compelled to spend her term of imprisonment at the pleasant home of Sheriff Mansfield, under the watchful eye of Mrs. Mansfield.

Railroadman Commits Larceny
Geo. W. Fuller, night operator at the railroad depot, was arrested by a Southern Pacific detective, charged with stealing merchandise from the company's warehouse in this city. He pleaded guilty to a petty larceny accusation in Judge Lampton's court Tuesday and was fined $25. He was discharged by the company.

Congregational Christmas.
The Christmas entertainment of the Congregational church which takes place at the church next Wednesday evening is in the hands of an able committee of which Mrs. Arthur Porter is chairman. The committee has tried to take in as many of the Sunday school scholars as possible so that the true Christmas spirit of happiness may be in every heart.

Shooting at South City.
Felice Lombardi of South San Francisco is lodged in the county jail, charged with murder for the killing of his countryman, Tony Piopasoni, at South San Francisco. During a quarrel Sunday night, the result of an old feud, Lombardi shot Piopasoni and the latter lingered until Monday night. The slayer was caught after a long chase. He claims self-defense.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER

D. E. O'KEEFE, Editor and Proprietor

EFFICIENCY A PRIME CONSIDERATION

Unquestionably the people of San Mateo County desire economy in the conduct of their public affairs. There is, however, a wide demarcation between economy and parsimony. The first leads to a careful expenditure of money with a view to the securing of the best results. The latter, in the conduct of public business must inevitably end in impaired service, a detriment to public interest. While no reason can be advanced for the payment of larger salaries to public officials than could be commanded for the same ability and responsibility in private life, there can be no valid objection to the payment of salaries commensurate with the demands of the office. Nor should a public official be expected to conduct his business with a less number of assistants than would be provided by a private concern transacting the same volume of business.

Simply because a man is holding a public office is no sufficient reason why he should be required to devote more time to the business than would be required in private life, nor that he should be required to provide for the employment of absolutely necessary assistants out of his personal income. Yet, this seems to be the case in the majority of the public offices of the county, a condition certainly unjust.

Possibly one of the most glaring instances of the lack of proper provision, so far as clerical assistance is concerned, is that of the County Tax Collector, one of the most important offices in the county, and one where both accuracy and promptness in the dispatch of business are of essential interest to the taxpayer, the one who ultimately foots the bills. While, probably, the personal salary of that official is ample, no one at all familiar with the work of the office can question the utter lack of clerical assistants. That Mr. McSweney has conducted the office to the satisfaction of the public was amply testified by the almost unanimous vote by which he was returned to office. The splendid record, however was only achieved by Mr. McSweney at the cost of much personal expense incurred in the payment of absolutely needed help from his own salary and the working of far longer hours than would have been required in any privately conducted business. Charged, as the office is, with the collection, in taxes and licenses, of almost $1,000,000 annually, and under a bond of $50,000 for the faithful transaction of this enormous business, he has practically been allowed no assistance, the only help provided being one assistant for the short space of four months each year. That their is absolute need of a much increased force would be made evident even to the most casual observer who might visit the office during the months of March, April and May or during the last four or five months of the year, when for the proper dispatch of business he has been required at times to have a force of as many as nine people at work at one time. During the greater part of these seasons the office has really the appearance of a combination of a bank and clearing house with a postoffice, the number of checks and amount of cash handled amounting to enormous sums daily, while at times the office has been in receipt of more than 900 letters in a single day, each of which necessitates some sort of reply. That this works an injustice upon the Tax Collector must be apparent, especially when it is remembered that recent changes in the salary laws deprived the Tax Collector of the fees formerly allowed for the collection of licenses, while at the same time there was added to the work of the office the making of the annual index to the assessment roll, formerly the work of the Assessor's office. That the needs of the office are especially recognized, is evidenced that in his recent charge to the grand jury Judge Buck especially urged the necessity of consideration of recommendation for increase assistance.

Another office, more or less related to the office of Tax Collector, in that it is one of the important financial departments of the county, which may be cited as a glaring instance of the lack of adequate consideration is that of County Treasurer. Handling each year an amount of public funds equal to the business transacted by many banks, Treasurer Chamberlain receives a salary hardly equal to that of an ordinary bank clerk, certainly far from commensurate with the responsibility which he assumes and the volume of business transacted. Under a bond of $350,000 for the safety of the county funds, he is paid the inconsequential sum of $1,800 per year, reasonably not more than one-half the recompense due for the responsibility assumed. Handling something like fifteen million dollars of county funds annually, and for which the strictest account must be kept, he is now compelled to do this enormous business without assistance. Certainly his request for one deputy is a modest one, while no reasonable person will question that the salary of the office should be increased to at least something commensurate with the responsibilities assumed.

Another peculiar situation is that of the office of County Surveyor. While it is not questioned that the county has been as liberal as possible in the supplying of assistance to Surveyor Neuman, it must be admitted by the veriest stickler for economy that the salary paid to the head of the office is far from adequate, or even reasonable. In fact it is generally admitted that the salary of the County Surveyor is based upon an antiquated system, one which has for some time been outlived by the business of the county. The time has long since passed when the public can afford to permit this official to depend upon private business for a considerable portion of the income which the ability demands, nor is it to the best public interest that this official should engage in private work. His entire time should be given to the interest of the county and if this is to be done he should receive adequate compensation.

Unquestionably the suggestion of County Clerk Nash that he be provided with one additional deputy is a modest one, considering the splendid record of that office. It is of the utmost importance to all that the work of the County Clerk's office should at all times be kept thoroughly up to date and if this is to be done adequate assistance must be provided.

Another office which should receive careful consideration is that of the District Attorney, which is far from a sinecure. For the safety of public interests, the county requires the best legal talent available and if this is to be secured the income must be at least some what commensurate with that of the private practice of an attorney. Probably but few of the general public are aware of the amount of work developing upon this office. It must be remembered that the duties of public prosecutor represent but a tithe of the work of the office. The District Attorney must be the legal advisor of every department of the public business of the county.

The instances cited in this article constitute but a few of those which might be mentioned, yet they seem sufficient to emphasize the fact that there is need of a complete revision of the salary list of officials of the county and more adequate provisions for assistance is the dispatch of public business. The present grand jury can render no better service to the county than to devise some reasonable solution of the inadequacies which have been called to their attention.

MOVE TO ERADICATE SERIOUS MENACE TO PUBLIC HEALTH

The United States Treasury Department through the Public Health Service and in co-operation with the County Board of Supervisors have instituted a squirrel eradication campaign in San Mateo county. Inspector L. B. Jones, U. S. P. H. Service arrived from San Francisco last week to assume charge of the work which will be prosecuted under the Act of the California Legislature of March 13, 1909, entitled "An Act Declaring Property Infested with Certain Rodents to be a Public Nuisance, etc."

In general the provisions of this law are that it is the duty of every person, firm, copartnership, company or corporation, owning, leasing, occupying, possessing or having charge or domain over, any land, which is infested with ground squirrels, or as soon as the presence of the same shall come to his knowledge, or its knowledge, at once to proceed and to continue in good faith, endeavor to exterminate and destroy such rodents by poisoning, trapping and other appropriate means.

The State Board of Health and Inspectors appointed by such board shall have authority and shall be permitted to enter upon any and all lands for the purpose of ascertaining whether the same are infested with such rodents and whether the requirements of this act as to the extermination and destruction thereof are being complied with.

Whenever any person, firm, owning, leasing any land, which is infested with such rodents, shall fail, neglect, or refuse to proceed and to continue to endeavor to exterminate and destroy such rodents, as herein required, it shall be the duty of the State Board of Health, its inspectors, at once to cause such nuisance to be abated by exterminating and destroying such rodents. The expense thereof shall be a charge against the county, wherein the work is done, and the Board of Supervisors or other governing body shall allow and pay the same. Any and all sums so paid by such county shall be a lien on the property on which said nuisance shall have been abated, and may be recovered in an action against such property, which action to foreclose such lien shall be brought within ninety days after such payment, and be prosecuted by the district attorney, in the name of such county and for its benefit. Any violation of the provisions of this act shall be deemed a misdemeanor and shall be punishable as such. (Statutes of 1909, page 311.)

The primary object of the Federal and State Health Service in reducing the number of ground squirrels to a minimum and eventually completely eradicate the pest is to prevent, as far as possible, human infection with a deadly contagious and infectious disease, to-wit, Bubonic Plague. The ground squirrel of California being infected with Bubonic Plague, and being able to communicate the disease to humans through the medium of fleas and other suctorial insects, is a constant menace to the health and lives of the people. Any rancher will realize the economic benefit that will be derived from the eradication of this destructive rodent. The Federal and State Governments have spent several hundred thousand dollars during the past five or six years in this work in the State. A great many localities and in some instances practically whole counties have been cleaned up to such an extent that a squirrel is rarely seen and when observed his time is usually short. It is not claimed that all ground squirrels are infected with plague, if they were the disease would soon complete the eradication and human cases would be as numerous as in parts of China and India. However, there are sufficient infected squirrels, as has been determined by laboratory examination of more than thirty thousand squirrels per year, to cause grave concern to the officials in charge of the work of protecting the public from epidemics of contagious and infectious diseases. To quote the California State Board of Health Bulletin for September, 1913, "Plague has been driven out of the cities, and through the co-operation of the Federal Public Health Service, an efficient method of protection maintained against reintroduction either by land or sea. The existence of plague, however, among squirrels in the territory immediately back of the cities about San Francisco bay constitutes a ready means of reintroduction from the squirrels to the rat population again. If the protective means mentioned should be discontinued, thus the squirrel population of the infected territory has been the battle-ground for five years. The field and laboratory work during this time has developed a great deal of valuable and practical information relative to squirrels and plague infection among them."

The centers of infection among the squirrels are known; farmers and others in these districts have been taught how to protect themselves, and encouraged to kill squirrels on their own property; the hunting of squirrels and carrying home of those shot by city dwellers has been prohibited; picnics and other outing trips into the infected territory have been discouraged in order to prevent people or house pets (dogs etc.) from coming in contact with infected squirrels or picking up fleas from them; other measures of this character have been instituted. But in spite of every precaution, and the active support of the people and the public press in advocating these measures, a few persons have been infected and in the majority of cases have died. Plans are being perfected for an intensive campaign against the squirrel during the next twelve months. The opportunity that seems now open to eradicate plague from California should be actively followed up, and residents within the infected areas, as well as the citizens at large through their constituted State and local authorities, should urge the enforcement of every measure designated to aid the achievement of the desired result.

The policy of the officers charged with the enforcement of the law is to require compliance with its provisions from everyone and at the same time work as little hardship possible on anyone. To this end the Inspector will assist those infected in every possible way, explain the various methods of eradication developed by the extensive research work of the Government, give instructions in the mixing and placing of poison and assist in the mixing of same, estimate cost of eradication of any area by the various methods recommended by the Government, giving as much personal supervision to each individual case as possible, distributing printed formulas and other literature to those interested, etc.

As a result of the work of the past years in dealing and perfecting satisfactory means of destroying squirrels, the public generally has been aroused to a new interest in the question of squirrel eradication. Land owners are now realizing as never before that the saving in products that had heretofore been destroyed will repay several times over in a year the amount expended in the destruction of these pests. All information that can be rendered is free and co-operation with the inspectors to the end that the work be completed rapidly, thoroughly and economically. It is hoped that sufficient inspectors will soon be available to enable the Service to thoroughly cover the entire county prior to the next breeding season.

Following is the daily average of people, motor cars and vehicles crossing the railroad tracks on Mount Street as kindly kept by Geo. Smith, the flagman, for two weeks ending Thursday evening at 6:30: Pedestrians, 700; automobiles, 815; teams, 545; motorcycles, 105; bicycles 360. Mr. Smith takes great interest in his work and is one of the most reliable flagmen in the employ of the railroad.

C. G. Landscheidt, manager of the Redwood City Realty Land Company, has been down in Stanislaus county this past week looking over the interests of the company there. Mr. Landscheidt reports that while money is just as scarce down there as it is here, yet at the same time, there is quite a little activity in real estate circles, by reason of the fact that there is considerable trading being done.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HEADS REELECTED

City Mechanic B. L. Werder Tenders His Resignation to the City Council.

That the city trustees do not intend that it shall be any fault of local conditions if there shall be any delay in the granting to Redwood City of the promised advantages of free mail delivery was made evident at the meeting of the council last Monday evening. Not alone were the ordinances providing for the systematic numbering of residences and business places and the renaming of streets to conform to the demands of the postal authorities, given prompt passage, but measures were taken to see that there was no delay in their enforcement. With the adoption of the ordinance providing for a system of house numbering, discussion turned upon the best means of securing its immediate observance, the trustees considering that circumstances admitted of but little delay of the city was to be made ready by the time of the proposed inauguration of the mail delivery system, which is expected soon after the first of the coming year. After the suggestion of several plans for expediting the work, it was finally decided that the expeditious method would be that of conveying to each household direct information as to the proper numbers to be placed. In order that this might be done without delay, Trustee Deleau, chairman of the finance committee of the council was given authority to arrange for the services of some competent person to make a complete canvass of the city and designate the number of each house. As the expense of numbers will be but a slight one, it is hoped that the residents of the city will co-operate in this effort and that the close of this year will find every residence and business place within the scope of the mail delivery system fully prepared for the advantages of this modern convenience.

Before settling down to the consideration of the general business of the city, the trustees held their annual joint meeting with the board of delegates from the fire department for the purpose of selecting general officers of the department for the coming year. As representatives of the fire department, the following delegates were in attendance: Hose Company No. 1, Albert Mansfield and A. Liguori; Hose Company No. 2, G. C. Plump and J. P. Coleman; Hose Company No. 3, Julius Allain and William Lutz; Hose Company No. 4, R. F. Chilcott and M. E. Ryan; Hook and Ladder Company, Wm. Price and Lee Pipkin; Chemical Company, Ed. Allen and Lisle Winter. Without opposition the following officers who have served the department in the past were given a testimonial of appreciation by a unanimous re-election: J. N. Winter, chief; James P. Coleman, first assistant; Julius Allain, second assistant.

Following the election of officers, some time was devoted to a mutual discussion of the needs of the fire department, with a view to securing a greater efficiency in the protection of the city. This discussion was led by Delegate Liguori, who strongly urged the need of more efficient apparatus, not only as a means of protection in itself, but as a means of securing more enthusiastic work on the part of the members of the department. Particular emphasis was laid on the immediate necessity for the addition and equipment of an auto chemical and hose wagon. Delegate Liguori laid special emphasis upon the fact that it had been found useless to attempt to secure enthusiastic work among the volunteer firemen when they were fully aware of the fact that the equipment with which they were provided was totally inadequate to the work expected. Replying to the natural request on the part of the department, Chairman Merrill assured the delegates of the readiness of the council to co-operate in every possible manner and the full realization of the city officials of the need of modern apparatus. It was made evident that the trustees are now considering the means of securing a modern fire fighting machine and that in the near future this question would be again put up to the people in whose interest the firemen were working without expectancy of compensation. Chairman Merrill also suggested to his colleagues that the city should take steps to indicate to the firemen its appreciation of their gratuitous work, urging that at least some means be taken to recompense the men for injuries to their clothing sustained in the line of duty. While no definite action was taken, it was indicated that the needs of the department would be given consideration at the next meeting, when the annual report of Chief Winter will be presented.

Having accepted a more desirable private position, City Mechanic B. L. Werder tendered his resignation, to take effect with the close of the present month. After general expressions of appreciation by the trustees of the services rendered to the city by Mr. Werder during the term of his employment, the resignation was accepted.

The ordinance introduced at the last meeting, increasing the license fees for the conduct of what are termed "bankrupt sales" from $300 to $500 per quarter and providing that no license can be granted for less than a full term, was given final passage.

Following the annual custom of the city council, Clerk Plump was given authority to purchase Red Cross stamps to the amount of $10 for use of the city offices.

City Attorney Mansfield presented an ordinance, prepared at the suggestion of the council, which if adopted will provide a means for the more strict regulation of the business of pawnbrokers and dealers in second-hand goods and junk. Under the provisions of the proposed law, licenses for these classes of business can only be granted upon the presentation of applications to the council, giving the exact location of the places where the business is to be conducted. Dealers will also be required to keep a record of all business transacted and permit of an inspection of the record at any time by the City Marshal.

A special committee, consisting of Trustees Tuohesen, Sampson and Deleau was appointed to consider and present a plan for the reorganization of the work of the various departments of city employees with a view to possible economy in expenditures. It was announced that this committee would consider any applications for positions on suggestions as to changes in the present methods of the distribution of the work of the city.

City Attorney Mansfield was directed to serve final notice upon owners of property who had secured exemption from past orders for sidewalk and curb construction under the plea of having made private contracts that unless actual work of construction was under way within 30 days, proceedings under the general street laws would be commenced.

With this business completed, the council adjourned to the committee room, where for an hour a general conference was held with Charles Turner, who is promoting a plan for the disposal of the garbage of the municipalities of the peninsula. During this time this perplexing problem was discussed from the view point of almost every interest without arriving at any definite result or even providing information upon which the trustees might predicate a plan of action.

TRADE BOARD SUGGESTS LOCATION FOR NEW JAIL

The meeting of the Redwood City Board of Trade last Tuesday evening was one of the most interesting and best attended meetings held by that organization in a long time, many subjects of importance to the county coming up for discussion.

The resignation of C. E. Cumberston brought up a discussion which it is hoped will be the means of instilling new life and energy into the Board. The discussion over this resignation developed the fact that during the past year Cumberston and others had repeatedly discussed the question of resigning, on account of lack of interest shown by many members and because the Board of Trade had taken little part in civic or public affairs.

The vexed question of the location of the county jail again came up and after a thorough discussion resulted in a motion that: "The secretary be instructed to submit to the board of supervisors of San Mateo County for their consideration, the top of the court house as the site of the proposed jail."

Upon the subject of Redwood City harbor improvement, Stuart Frank was appointed chairman of the committee who will investigate the most efficient methods of presenting the needs of the harbor to the government. The committee consists of Stuart Frank, Frank Marcus, W. C. Graves, Jr., G. A. Merrill and R. F. Chilcott.

The Tennis Season.

On account of the proximity of the close of the year, a hasty survey of the events which happened on the tennis court by the old mill stream during the past twelve months would no doubt be interesting to all.

The lion's share of the honors, both physical and mental, were captured by the courtship "400"—Griffin, R. Curran, Moody, Finlay and Shaw. Searching for quantitative results, we find the surveyor's office sadly, also badly, in the lead, while our qualitative consideration rests elsewhere—whether we wisely refrain from mentioning. Chemically speaking, i. e., either analytically or synthetically, the Kayser carried off the palm, having introduced a new serve undeniably bewildering as well as performing many feats on the light fantastic toe, which incidentally were the only novelties of the season.

Presumably on account of the low condition of the exchequer, the members, "dolore dicta," could not show their best this year for the reason that their hands were in their pockets most of the time while playing, same action being necessary to hold up their trousers and thereby avert serious calamity. However, despite this handicap, it is hoped that next year the Minister of Finance will have things in shape peculiarly speaking and that the proper articles will be procured for the purpose of holding trousers in a pendant manner. This result attained, it is evident that the brand of tennis will not only exceed this year's performances but next year's expectations.

For the benefit of those whose interest in the game is exceeded only by their generosity in permitting certain young men mentioned above to appear upon any tennis court we submit the following list of grand prize players for consideration, contemplation and explanation:

Town singles champion, G. Seely, Jr.; town doubles champions, Roy and Eugene Curran. Club singles champion, F. Griffin; club doubles champions, F. Griffin and Dr. N. C. Cummings.

Mrs. M. A. Ross, nee Roche, spent the week-end with her father and sisters here. She is much delighted with city life.

DOINGS ABOUT THE COUNTY OFFICES

Matters of General Interest to Litigants Culled from the Public Records.

The papers in the case of the People of the State against W. R. Markt were received from the justice court of the Second township on appeal by County Clerk Nash last Tuesday. Markt was arrested some time ago in a raid made by the District Attorney on his resort at Visitation. He was charged with keeping a gambling place and was tried for the offense by Judge Leach of Burlingame and found guilty. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $500. Markt thought the fine excessive and at once instructed his attorney, J. J. Bullock, to appeal the case to the Superior Court. Mr. Markt is now engaged in the real estate business.

Civil Action Dismissed.

The case entitled Eliza C. Herbert against the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has been dismissed in the Superior Court, the notice of dismissal having been filed in the county clerk's office yesterday. Mrs. Herbert some time ago brought the action against the company to recover damages in the sum of $30,000 for the death of her son, Raymond, a live wire being in contact with the company's system at Colma. The complaint alleged carelessness on the part of the light concern. The suit has evidently been compromised and settled out of court. The amount of money received by such compromise cannot be ascertained as the parties to the suit are non-committal.

New Actions in Superior Court.

Anna Pinger has brought an action in the Superior Court through her attorneys, Rose & Ross, against her husband, Leo Pinger, for an interlocutory decree of divorce on the grounds of desertion and extreme cruelty. The Pingers were married in San Francisco on March 10, 1908. There are no children as a result of the marriage. The community property consists of certain lots at the Town of Burlingame, which the plaintiff asks to be set aside to her as her separate property. She also asks for $50 a month during the pendency of the action and $100 attorney fees. She asks that her permanent support be fixed at $50 a month.

H. G. Plymire, administrator of the estate of George Donald, deceased, has commenced an action in the Superior Court against Thomas Alton, as secretary of the Caledonian Club of San Mateo, to recover the sum of $620 due on a promissory note executed on July 8, 1912. There has been some money paid on account of the note, supposedly the sum of $200, but the exact amount is not known to the administrator. Plaintiff asks for interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum from July 8, 1912.

The suit of the W. A. Hammond Lumber Co. against the San Mateo Planning Mill Co. that was commenced in the Superior Court of the City and County of San Francisco on October 16, last, was transferred to the Superior Court of this county for trial last Tuesday.

The plaintiff brings the action to recover the sum of $4,296.38 for lumber furnished defendant during the year last past. Plaintiff also asks for his costs of suit.

Matthew C. Callan, administrator of the estate of Mary Callan, deceased, through his attorney, Henry Ward Brown, has brought an action in the Superior Court against the following defendants, who are brothers and sisters of plaintiff and heirs to the Mary Callan estate: P. F. Callan, Mgruette Callan, Thos. J. Callan, John P. Callan, Patrick Callan, Mary Zipsper and James Callan, to quiet title to a valuable block of land at Colma, valued at $10,000.

Mrs. Callan, who was a well known resident of Colma for a great many years, died on the 23d of December, 1909. Some time after her death, the defendants fled to the property, claiming that said instruments were properly executed by their mother prior to her death.

Plaintiff contends that there was no delivery of the deeds and they are therefore null and void. The complaint makes the following allegations: "That such claim or claims made by or upon the part of said defendants above named, and by or without any right whatever, and in and to said plaintiff, and to all of said pretended deeds are false, fraudulent, invalid and void, for the reason that they were never delivered to the grantees named therein, defendants herein; nor was any of them ever delivered to either or any of said defendants by said Mary Callan during her lifetime."

On occasion from the Swart farm. Mr. Swart is building a cosy home at Laurel Terrace, on the hills back of Redwood City. The house will be ready for occupancy after the first of the year. In advance, the Times-Gazette wishes the young couple a very happy and successful married life.
